

Zoom Meeting By Gary Eaves

Zoom Meeting: What we do at our Zoom Meetings. Zoom attendees share their latest ideas, projects, mistakes, etc., and often times the step by step process they use in creating their project. The step by step presentation might occur over several weeks (1 – 6, or more) depending on the project. It's fun and we learn a lot from each other and we get inspired with old, or new, ideas about "our" next project. Any and every subject can come up. Join us!!

Feathers burned by Ed Heskett's son, who first woodburned at our 2019 Show. The "horse" is his latest project.

Ken Morgan's wedding cake topper.

A carving by Carole Dwinell's, Sea Captain relative David Costin in 1835.

Like I said, you never know what may come up at a Zoom Meeting.
